STRIKE SITUATION STILL UNSETTLED

Little Freight Moving Through Here for North—Several Officials Beaten Up.

That conditions at St. Paul and other points affected by the switchmen's strike are not so calm and serene as the railroad managers have reported them to be the opinion of those who have talked with trainmen who have seen the state of affairs now existing there.

It is true that the roads have the usual number of switchmen in service but what is being accomplished is another matter. The class of men employed as strike-breakers are not, to say the least, of the highest order nor can their work be compared favorably with that of the union men. They will work a certain number of days in a "dirty" sort of a fashion, but after they get tired or have a pay day, double pay will not keep them on the job. This condition of affairs has not arrived as yet, but when it does come, the roads will find that the real trouble has just started.

Although it has been reported that no violence has taken place, this hardly seems to be the case. Officials have been drawn from outside points to take charge of the yards and several have been forced to return home in a badly damaged condition. Trainmaster William Hayes, well known in this city, who was sent from the Madison division, was beaten unmercifully by the strikers and it is reported that he is in the hospital. Assistant Superintendent G. H. Vilas and F. D. Pundell are also among those who are said to have suffered bodily harm.

According to the managers' statements, traffic is moving at a normal rate, but this is not apparent in Janesville for only a slight percentage of the freight formerly handled is coming through at the present time. There are practically no cars from St. Paul from whence most of the cars formerly came, but the greater portion of the south-bound freight comes from Winona. Neither is there any great amount of freight being sent north, at least through here. The north-bound trains are composed mostly of empty stock cars that require little or no switching and of merchandise that must be sent.

PEDESTRIANS' CLOSE CALL AT FIVE POINTS YESTERDAY

Ten People Prevented Just in Time From Stepping in Front of Passenger Train.

"Somebody will get it some day at the five points" has been the exclamation of those who have witnessed many narrow escapes at that more than dangerous crossing and they have persisted in this belief although the goodness of good luck seems to have taken up her permanent abode somewhere near the crossing and protected those who are forced to use it.

Another narrow escape last night gives a hint of what might happen when the luck turns. About half past five, nine or ten men, women and children were waiting for a heavy freight train to pull across in order to proceed on their homeward way. Just as the caboose cleared the tracks, they made a concerted rush to cross the tracks but were halted within two feet of the main passenger track by Yardmaster Griffin just as train 513 flashed by. Had the yardmaster not been there at that moment and seen their peril, at least half of them would have been dashed into eternity for the single flagman that the road has stationed at this point was watching the other crossing. If the yardmaster had not left the switch shanty to see if the cross-over switch was turned for 513, half a dozen lifeless bodies would have called the company's attention to a death trap that up to the present time has been criminally neglected.

Fireman R. K. Smith went north to Baraboo yesterday at 1:30 in the north end pool on account of Engineer Stowart's fireman taking sick.

SLIM PROSPECTS OF DECEMBER ICE CROP

Sudden Hopes of Dealers in This Commodity Dashed by the Rising Temperature.

"The freeze-up night before last caused a thin coating of ice to form on the river and zero weather the next night closed it up sufficiently so that the boys have been skating on its surface," said Henry Tall of the City Ice company. "But," he continued, "it was 16 above zero at six o'clock this morning and that puts the kibosh on all our hopes. Twenty years ago we expected to cut ice at this season of the year and the operations were regarded as a yearly opportunity for earning Christmas money. The last time we harvested the crop in December, if my recollection serves me right, was eighteen years ago. It's too bad, too, because the best crystal forms in December when the days are short and the nights are long. The ice we get in February when the sun has a ten hour chance at it, will almost invariably be honeycombed as soon as we get it out of the river. I do not pretend to understand the chemistry of the sun's rays, but I know that you can sometimes kick one of those blocks all to pieces with a single impact."

MONROE CARDINALS TO HAVE TWO TEAMS

Enough Good Material Found to Form Two Expert Teams, to Alternate With One Another in Playing.

Monroe, Wis., Dec. 9.—The Cardinal club will have two fast basketball teams this season. At a meeting held to choose a team from the fifteen candidates, it was found that there was excellent material for two teams, one of which will be a reserve team. The teams are evenly balanced, and by alternating, each man will play his share of the games during the season. The lineup for this evening's game to be played with the Beloit Y. M. C. A. is as follows:

C. Karlen, r. f.; Haren, l. f.; Kaufman, r. g.; Kaudert, l. g.; Collettine. The reserve team is composed of the following members: C. Blumer, r. f.; Bast, l. f.; Dordick, r. g.; Schneider, l. g.; Walters. R. H. Gifford of this city, part owner in the John Laue & Paul company, has developed his connection with the firm on account of his growing business interests in a similar business here. R. H. Gifford of John, co-partner with Mr. Gifford, will now assume full management of the concern.

W. B. Nowman has sold his residence property on West Washington street to Ernest J. Stauffer, who paid $4,300 for the same. Mr. Nowman will return to his farm near John on March 1st, when possession will be given.

Miss Verena Wenger and Mr. John Blatt, both of Spring Grove, were married at the parsonage of St. John's church by Rev. P. A. Schulz.

Miss Nora Lauech of Orangeville, a graduate of the Monroe Business Institute, was married at Waterloo, Ia., yesterday, to Mr. Adam Lauech of Charles City, Ia. Mr. Lauech holds a responsible position with the Hart, Pure Engine company of Waterloo, Ia.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Sonderogger are the parents of a baby boy.

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Dean of Milwaukee are visiting their daughter, Mrs. Fred J. Blumer.

Dr. J. F. Roub and Edwin Ludlow have returned from a trip to the fat stock show at Chicago.

Miss Emma Wendt, who was here on a visit to her brother, W. C. Wendt, returned yesterday to her home at Kaukauna.

J. L. Stauffer, who has been in this vicinity buying cattle, has returned to his home at Forest City, Ia., with a carload of choice Holsteins.

Mrs. J. D. Walker of Janesville is visiting friends in the city.

Miss Sylvia Raymond, who was called here by the death of Mrs. B. T. Raymond, has returned to her home at Dechow.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Luchinsger of Ripon visited in the city and left yesterday afternoon for Janesville. Miss Clara Beach is visiting relatives at Froppert.

MOLECULAR ACTION AND DAM AT FORD

Mobility of Water, Operations of Law of Gravitation, and Other Scientific Considerations Up Today.

Granted that a dam sets back water to a point up stream where a horizontal line drawn from its crest comes in contact with the bed, what will be the effect of this backwater on the normal flow at that particular point? For one thing, a vertical eddy will be formed against the dam wall. Also, the molecules of water as they follow one another, when the flow is increasing, will have a tendency to push their neighbors onward but quite another tendency will be manifest when the volume is decreasing. The foregoing scientific considerations and many others incident to the Indian Ford dam case occupied the attention of the court today. Capt. Nader, civil engineer and expert witness, was on the stand throughout the forenoon and there were frequent references to an imposing array of maps and charts showing water levels, soundings and river and lake bed topography.

The Indian Ford dam has been, at intervals, the subject of litigation over

It is a remarkable fact that in the important trial of the Indian Ford dam case now being tried before Judge Graham, the majority of the men who are most prominent in the case all do the best of their duty. In fact they have passed the allotted span of man's life. Captain Philip Norcross, the defendant, is seventy-one years of age. His attorney, William R. Kor, is of the same age. The expert engineer for the defense, Captain Nader, is eighty-four. For the prosecution, or representing the state, Col. George W. Bird of Madison is seventy-three, and Captain Nader, the state's expert engineer, is seventy-one. It is a remarkable coincidence that these men who are prominent in the legal and engineering life of the state are all over seventy and should all be principals in this interesting case, the beginning of which dates back into the forties.

When Guy Stoughton built it in 1854, Mr. Stoughton, himself, was prosecuted on a criminal indictment charging him with obstructing a navigable stream. The case went to the supreme court on a question of law but was never tried on its merits. For the high tribunal held that a man could not be convicted of perpetrating a public nuisance in operating a dam specifically authorized by the legislature.

At the instance of William Taylor, proprietor of the summer hotel known as the Taylor House, an injunction action was instituted a decade or more ago against the Indian Ford dam, to restrain the dam company from opening eight big waste gates in a time of low water. The dam company was interested in mills at Janesville, Beloit, Rockton, and Rockford and sought to use Lake Koshkonong as a reservoir. Mr. Taylor did not admire the wide strip of mud that intervened between the boat-houses and docks and the dancing waves when the gates were lifted. He was successful in his action to compel the owners to keep the water at the crest of the dam. That judgment destroyed its value for the purposes of the then owners and they sold it to Capt. Philip Norcross who was interested in a mill run by.

Poor Handwriting.

Infus Choate is said to have been as bad a writer as Horace Greeley. A new house of Mr. Choate's being under construction, he had arranged to obtain designs for an ornamental chimney-piece from a certain quarter. There was a long delay, but at last there came a letter from Choate, which was really an intimation that he had been unable so far to obtain those designs. But the workmen at once began to construct the chimney-piece. Choate's letter had been understood as a sketch of it. Parallel with this is the legend that one of Napoleon's letters home from Poland was interpreted as a sketch map of the field of the campaign.

Penitentiary Statistics. Rev. Frank Richards, chaplain of the state prison at Columbus, O., has tabulated some interesting statistics concerning the inmates of that prison. The Ohio penitentiary was established in 1815, and since that time it has received 39,384 prisoners. It now has 1,615 male convicts and 58 females, of whom 222 are under sentence for life. The average sentence of each convict, not counting the "lifers," is two years, one month, 25 days and a fraction. The estimated aggregated number of years which the "lifers" will have to serve is 2,220, and the aggregate number of years of service of other prisoners is 3,519 years, making a total of 5,739.

New Photography. Prof. Florence has devised a new method of examining and photographing opaque microscopic objects. Applying this method to the examination of traces of blood on weapons, he was able to recognize distinctly red blood corpuscles which had escaped discovery by expert examiners. The method, which is susceptible of other than medico-legal applications, is characterized by the fact that the light by which the object is illuminated is admitted into the tube of the microscope, whence it is reflected by prisms to the object glass, which converges it upon the object.

Notes From the Labor World.
 A new bricklayers' union has been organized in Aberdeen, S. D.

About 85 per cent of labor in the building trades at Hot Springs, Ark., is organized.

According to figures of 1927, recently issued, Spain has a trade union membership of 22,612.

Brewery Workers International has jumped in membership from 10,000 to 26,000 in twelve years.

A new union, composed of chauffeurs and helpers, was organized recently in San Francisco and is gaining.

Boston, Mass., has another new seamstresses' union. It will include the men doing one special line of work.

The total income of the Austrian Woodworkers' union rose from $10,000 in 1902 to $145,500 in 1928; the expenditures from $7,500 in 1902 to $165,000 in 1928.

At the close of the third quarter of the current year the Carpenters' Union of Sacramento, Calif., had 564 members, in good standing and $10,000 in assets for 1911. San Francisco is its credit.

The Salt Lake (Utah) Typographical Union has started a campaign to obtain the attention of the international union in the field with an offer.

The working women of England are rapidly joining organized labor, new recruits being received into the unions every week. The total number enrolled up to the present is nearly 200,000.

Steps are being taken by interested members of some of the railway organizations to bring about a thorough organization of all lines of workmen in the railway yard service at an early date.

The International Blacksmiths' union is endeavoring to devise some means of raising a fund which is to be used in an effort to obtain the eight-hour day for blacksmiths in all parts of the country.

Since the organization of the Clock and Metal Makers' Union No. 56, at Boston, Mass., seventeen months ago, more than five hundred members have been enrolled, about half of the total number of the craft in the city.

Special committees have been appointed by the dual unions of stone cutters to confer on the question of amalgamation. Members of both unions are said to be in favor of the plan and the matter is to be arranged by the committees.

St. Paul, Minn., Carpenters' Union has been considering the feasibility of building a large labor hall for the unions of St. Paul. The hall has $30,000 in the bank, and many members wish to invest it in a permanent home for the labor unions.

Under a new law which has just gone into effect in Connecticut written reports must be made to the factory inspector of every accident in a factory or mercantile establishment, by which the death of an employee or his serious injury is caused. The inspector or any of his deputies is authorized to make an investigation, but the records of the investigation are to be confidential and neither the inspector nor any of his assistants is to be a competent witness concerning the facts ascertained by the investigation. Failure to report an accident is punishable by a maximum fine of $20.

OBITUARY.

Thomas F. Nolan
 The funeral of Thomas F. Nolan was held this morning at 8:30 from the home of his son, Thomas Nolan, 302 West Bluff street, and at nine o'clock from St. Patrick's church, Rev. J. J. McCarthy officiated at the services. Interment was made in Mt. Olivet cemetery. The funeral was a large one and the floral offerings of bereaved relatives and friends were very beautiful. J. J. Kelley, James Young, J. Dempsey, John Heffernan, St. J. Schmidley and William A. Murray.

TO OPEN FRUIT JARS

Knife Slides Between Cap and Rubber Band and Loosens Former.
 An implement for removing the caps of glass fruit jars when they stick, has been invented by a Pennsylvania man, and will be found a great convenience by housewives. A strong metal band, formed into a circle, the circumference of a jar top, is attached to a cutter blade, which has a handle at one end. The band, which has a free end and acts as a spring, is slipped around the cap of a jar and the cutter blade is inserted between the cap and the rubber band that encircles the mouth of the jar to make the latter airtight. The knife is then moved around the jar till it has loosened the cap sufficiently to permit its removal. The admission of air through the path of the knife is enough to accomplish this and it will then be easy to unscrew the cap. This method is an improvement over other methods, whereby the recalcitrant cap is gripped with an implement, which in some cases results in the breaking of the jar.

ADMIT AIR TO THE JAR.

Billiard Playing for Women.
 A pioneer who deserves well of her sex is Miss Strober, who is endeavoring to popularize billiard playing among women. Miss Strober's own graceful presence and womanly charm are calculated rapidly to dispel any misgivings the outsider might feel as to billiards being an unfeminine game. Indeed, its latest champion protests that women only want to know more about the intricacies of billiard playing to like it as well as golf or hockey. It appears that it is the very thing for the muscles, and the gentle exercise involved adds color to the cheeks and brightness to the eyes—a fact which should count much with our beauty-loving age.—M. Making Meal-Time Pleasant.

A Harlem mother has struck upon a plan which adds greatly to the general good humor of the household over which she presides. A son works with his father down town, and there are three girls and a boy in school. At dinner every night each member of the little circle must tell the funniest incident in his or her personal experience of the day. Tried as an experiment, the idea has been made permanent, and it provides a barrel of fun every 24 hours. It also has increased the powers of observation of every member of the family, and now the plan finds a natural development in a scrapbook in which the pick of the crop of stories is jotted down.

The Joy of Giving

The joy of receiving is more than equalled by the joy of giving. What we are wont to call the Holiday Spirit is really the joy of giving. Where we love we want to give, and to give the thing that will best please the recipient. Judicious giving necessitates wise selection.

We are well ready with the broadest and most comprehensive showing of staple and strictly gift goods.

From such a line it is easy to make a wise selection for each and every member of your family and acquaintanceship.

It is easy to select a gift that is altogether pleasing at a price that accords exactly with your idea of expenditure, regardless of what your idea may be.

Gloves, Dresses, Hand Bags and Neckwear, and kindred lines are considered staple Christmas suggestions.

But it is none-the-less usual to give stockings, or a dainty piece of underwear, or a well made J. C. C. Corset or a petticoat of silk.

To those who dislike crowds, we recommend the morning hours for holiday shopping.

To those who appreciate the advantage of an early selection we recommend that it is none too soon to begin.

Below we offer a list of suggestions which may serve to refresh your memory.

SOUND TO THE CORE

"We have no possible right," he said, "to build up a general scheme of public primary and secondary schools, with the college as its goal. This is sacrificing the many for the benefit of the few."

This paragraph is the keynote of an address delivered in Milwaukee, the other day, at the annual convention of the National Society for the Promotion of Industrial Education.

The speaker was President A. C. Humphreys, and the sentiment quoted was expressed after stating that only 8 per cent of the 13,000,000 young men in this country received in the elementary schools receive any direct training for their vocation, while the 92 per cent who in maturity support their families and themselves by manual work are graduated from the common schools without any real preparation for their work.

He was forced to the very evident conclusion that the system in force is for the benefit of the few at the expense of the masses.

The Milwaukee News had the common sense to break the idiotic silence of the college-bred editorial sanctum, and endorse the movement in which the national society is engaged. The paper says:

"Educational authorities agree with Mr. Humphreys. In Wisconsin, firm and steady steps have been taken in the direction of industrial education. The boys who have only until the age of 14 years or so to gain their education are given opportunity for training, not to fit them for the college and the professional life which they can never reach, but for the hard work on which they must rely for their existence."

There is manifest unfairness in the system which provides that these boys should spend their time in gaining a smattering of cultural information, rather than a working knowledge of reading, writing, English and vocational mathematics. The purpose of the public schools should be, not to train a few for leadership, but to train all for citizenship. Those who are enabled to avail themselves of higher education, and to enter professional or business life should not be given early advantage to the detriment of the mass to whom the university and the profession must be unattainable.

The aims of the Society for the Promotion of Industrial Education are admirable. There is much room for work here in Wisconsin, where a definite start has been made. There is even greater opportunity in other states, where the old system still obtains."

If the press of the country would take hold of this important question, and wage a campaign in the interests of the masses the public school system would soon be revolutionized and placed on a practical basis.

AND STILL THEY COME

The Municipal Journal compiles the following information. Gloucester adopted the commission plan a year ago:

"Gloucester, Mass.—Mayor Henry H. Parsons and the city commissioners have issued a statement to the voters briefly reviewing their year's work. The municipal council held 133 meetings besides 267 committee meetings, and the records of the council covered 522 pages as compared with 286 pages of the records of the old city council. The reduction in the city debt has been $18,000 with all bills paid. The roads were never in better condition, though the expense was $6,000 less than formerly. A system of bookkeeping which was approved by the state authorities was put into effect. Public buildings have been better cared for at less expense."

"John, Kan.—At a recent mass meeting the first steps were taken at securing city government by a commission, and committees were appointed to correspond with officials in cities where the proposition has been tested. The information thus obtained is to be presented at another mass meeting which will be held this month. An effort will also be made to get speakers who have given this question special study to address the meeting. The commission form of government has been suggested here for several years, but only recently have the citizens become generally interested. A straw vote taken resulted almost unanimously in favor of a commission."

"Rochester, Minn.—Rochester may adopt the commission plan of government. For some weeks past there has been agitation in this direction, not because of the inefficiency of any of the city officials, but because it is believed by a number of prominent citizens that better results and a more businesslike administration can be obtained from the commission plan than under the present system. To arrive at a satisfactory understanding of the matter the Commercial club of the city has arranged for a public meeting to be held in the near future, and at that time the commission plan will be discussed."

"Spokane, Wash.—Six thousand dollars a year until the population of the city shall have reached 150,000, after which each of the five commissioners is to receive $7,500 yearly, is the salary recommendation of the special committee named by Mayor Nelson S. Pratt, as stated in our issue of November 10, in reporting upon a new charter for Spokane. The commissioners are to be elected at large for those departments: Public safety, public works, public affairs, public utilities and finance. It is also recommended that the park commission be continued, also that a civil service commission be created. One member shall be designated as mayor and act as chairman of the board, another as vice-chairman, but every resolution or ordinance must be signed by the mayor, or acting mayor or two members of the board. All ordinance legislation shall be by ordinance, effective ten days after adoption, unless otherwise specified, but franchises cannot become operative until thirty days after their passage. After the commission is created, and beginning in 1912, two members shall be elected at the general election and three alternately at biennial elections."

And so it goes all over the country, and enthusiasm is not confined to the larger cities. The little city of Stoughton is agitating the movement. People generally are waking up to the fact that city government can be greatly improved, in the hands of a commission and the next five years will witness many changes for the better. Janesville will make no mistake in adopting the plan.

Milwaukee is having a funny experience with the barbers' Sunday closing law. One of the violators is a Sabatarian of peculiar faith, who selects Monday instead of Sunday as his day for rest and devotion. The prosecution suggested that while it might be illegal for this man to keep his shop open on Sunday that possibly he could go out with a push-cart and serve his patrons at their homes on the Lord's day. This opens up a new industry, and traveling barbershops will be a new innovation in the Cream City. The world do certainly move.

The Red Cross society is being severely criticised for not relieving want promptly at Cherry, and a committee of Chicago businessmen are now on the ground to aid in distributing supplies. Too much red tape and too little common sense is the trouble. The money raised for immediate relief was most of it sent to headquarters in Washington, while it was intended for Cherry sufferers and every dollar of it should have gone to them. The Red Cross society needs a sociologist and Clara Barton.

For a continuous performance the city of Butte, Montana, is in the lead. Fifty-three couples entered as contestants in a marathon endurance walk and after 15 hours, without rest or nourishment, six of the girls were taken to the hospital, and the rest went home. The prizes offered were gold watches and diamond rings. That beats playing a piano against time.

"Now you see it and now you don't," was the experience which came to the insurgents in congress, as they sat with open-mouthed wonder, while the president's message was being read. They were ready to fight at the drop of the hat, but the hat didn't drop, and now they are taking account of stock to see where they are at.

Any of the merchants who are out take hold of this important question, and wage a campaign in the interests of the masses the public school system would soon be revolutionized and placed on a practical basis.

Any of the merchants who are out take hold of this important question, and wage a campaign in the interests of the masses the public school system would soon be revolutionized and placed on a practical basis.

The Municipal Journal compiles the following information. Gloucester adopted the commission plan a year ago:

"Gloucester, Mass.—Mayor Henry H. Parsons and the city commissioners have issued a statement to the voters briefly reviewing their year's work. The municipal council held 133 meetings besides 267 committee meetings, and the records of the council covered 522 pages as compared with 286 pages of the records of the old city council. The reduction in the city debt has been $18,000 with all bills paid. The roads were never in better condition, though the expense was $6,000 less than formerly. A system of bookkeeping which was approved by the state authorities was put into effect. Public buildings have been better cared for at less expense."

"John, Kan.—At a recent mass meeting the first steps were taken at securing city government by a commission, and committees were appointed to correspond with officials in cities where the proposition has been tested. The information thus obtained is to be presented at another mass meeting which will be held this month. An effort will also be made to get speakers who have given this question special study to address the meeting. The commission form of government has been suggested here for several years, but only recently have the citizens become generally interested. A straw vote taken resulted almost unanimously in favor of a commission."

"Rochester, Minn.—Rochester may adopt the commission plan of government. For some weeks past there has been agitation in this direction, not because of the inefficiency of any of the city officials, but because it is believed by a number of prominent citizens that better results and a more businesslike administration can be obtained from the commission plan than under the present system. To arrive at a satisfactory understanding of the matter the Commercial club of the city has arranged for a public meeting to be held in the near future, and at that time the commission plan will be discussed."

"Spokane, Wash.—Six thousand dollars a year until the population of the city shall have reached 150,000, after which each of the five commissioners is to receive $7,500 yearly, is the salary recommendation of the special committee named by Mayor Nelson S. Pratt, as stated in our issue of November 10, in reporting upon a new charter for Spokane. The commissioners are to be elected at large for those departments: Public safety, public works, public affairs, public utilities and finance. It is also recommended that the park commission be continued, also that a civil service commission be created. One member shall be designated as mayor and act as chairman of the board, another as vice-chairman, but every resolution or ordinance must be signed by the mayor, or acting mayor or two members of the board. All ordinance legislation shall be by ordinance, effective ten days after adoption, unless otherwise specified, but franchises cannot become operative until thirty days after their passage. After the commission is created, and beginning in 1912, two members shall be elected at the general election and three alternately at biennial elections."

And so it goes all over the country, and enthusiasm is not confined to the larger cities. The little city of Stoughton is agitating the movement. People generally are waking up to the fact that city government can be greatly improved, in the hands of a commission and the next five years will witness many changes for the better. Janesville will make no mistake in adopting the plan.

Milwaukee is having a funny experience with the barbers' Sunday closing law. One of the violators is a Sabatarian of peculiar faith, who selects Monday instead of Sunday as his day for rest and devotion. The prosecution suggested that while it might be illegal for this man to keep his shop open on Sunday that possibly he could go out with a push-cart and serve his patrons at their homes on the Lord's day. This opens up a new industry, and traveling barbershops will be a new innovation in the Cream City. The world do certainly move.

The Red Cross society is being severely criticised for not relieving want promptly at Cherry, and a committee of Chicago businessmen are now on the ground to aid in distributing supplies. Too much red tape and too little common sense is the trouble. The money raised for immediate relief was most of it sent to headquarters in Washington, while it was intended for Cherry sufferers and every dollar of it should have gone to them. The Red Cross society needs a sociologist and Clara Barton.

For a continuous performance the city of Butte, Montana, is in the lead. Fifty-three couples entered as contestants in a marathon endurance walk and after 15 hours, without rest or nourishment, six of the girls were taken to the hospital, and the rest went home. The prizes offered were gold watches and diamond rings. That beats playing a piano against time.

"Now you see it and now you don't," was the experience which came to the insurgents in congress, as they sat with open-mouthed wonder, while the president's message was being read. They were ready to fight at the drop of the hat, but the hat didn't drop, and now they are taking account of stock to see where they are at.

CHILDREN'S BOOKS

Have Been Placed on Shelves in Children's Department of the Public Library.

Nearly one hundred children's books have been placed on the shelves in the children's department of the public library and more will be put at the disposal of the children later. In all there will be about two hundred new children's books in the library when the full quota is secured.

These will embrace volumes of interest to the youngsters of all ages. For the smaller ones there will be picture books and fables; for the older boys and girls, stories and child plays.

Story Hour

The Children's story hour will be held tomorrow morning as usual at half-past ten in the children's department in the library. Miss Skavlen and Miss Howe will have charge of the meeting.

LOCAL PARAGRAPHS.

Fallen Man Was Missing: The police patrol wagon was called to the vicinity of the Lutheran church last night to take care of a man who was supposed to have fallen in the snow, but the party was not to be found when the officers arrived on the scene.

Still Alarm: An overhauled stove at the John C. Nichols Hardware company's factory on South River street caused the ceiling to ignite. A still alarm was sent in to the fire department and the chemicals were used in putting the blaze out. The damage amounts to but three or four dollars.

BANK WILL PRESENT A FINE APPEARANCE

Edgerton Tobacco Exchange Bank to Be Almost Completely Remodeled—Work Partly Finished.

(Special to the Gazette.)

Edgerton, Wis., Dec. 10.—The Tobacco Exchange bank have nearly completed the remodeling of their building, or at least that portion of it that it was possible to finish with the existing weather conditions. The plans when completely worked out contemplate the tearing away of the most of the side walls of brick and their replacement with Bedford stone and plate glass, the front of the bank having the same change made in material. The front entrance which now opens from the center will be moved to the corner of the building, thus giving them more room in the bank. These latter changes will be made as soon as it is possible to commence work in the spring of the year and will be pushed rapidly to completion. The changes made so far in the bank building have made it possible for them to put in safety deposit boxes, and has given them an addition to their banking room of about fourteen feet. A new floor, marble baseboard, and new fixtures throughout will give the Tobacco Exchange bank a finished appearance, and the increase in space is necessary on account of the increased volume of business and the difficulty and inconvenience in handling it with the small amount of space which they have formerly had for the transaction of the business.

The space formerly occupied by the Morley store has been divided up, the bank taking about fourteen feet, which includes the old stairway leading to the offices above, and the remainder of the store in addition to the old stairway leading to the side street from the Shelby store has been finished up for a shoe store for the firm of Sholler, Anderson & Farman.

A large, well-lighted and convenient stairway next to the Shelby company's store makes the offices above easily accessible, this feature being as necessary as the remodeling of the bank. There has been a rearrangement of some of the offices, toilet rooms, water and steam heat being given to the tenants for their convenience and comfort. The steam-heating plant has been made large enough to heat the Shelby company's store with the tailor shop of John Thoreson and the law office of L. E. Gottle, all of the offices over the bank and post-office, the Sholler store and annex, bank and post-office. The post-office has been enlarged and the old unsightly front entrance has been done away with, the new opening being at the very back side, and the new improved look boxes have been added to the office. The employees now have ample space in which to do their work and arrangement of room has been made for the handling of all mails, both local and rural, in a most convenient manner.

The bank is to be congratulated on the changes made and on those under contemplation and the city can likewise congratulate itself on the fact that back of the bank is a set of progressive businessmen who are ready and willing to not only build up their own business but as ready and willing to do things for the general advancement of the interests of the town.

BROADHEAD LODGE OF M. W. A. HAS ELECTED NEW OFFICERS

(Special to the Gazette.)

Broadhead, Wis., Dec. 10.—At their last regular meeting Alexander Cuno M. W. A. elected the following officers: V. C. D. L. Amerpohl; W. Ad. F. Heath; Ex. Barker, A. M. Kuegel; clerk, W. B. Bailey; escort, A. E. Holliday; watchman, A. H. Douglas; secretary, C. H. Fowler; manager for three years, M. L. Karmey; physicians, H. L. Murdoch, E. J. Mitchell and G. S. Darby; special auditing committee, L. I. Farman. The installation will be the first meeting in January.

Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Lowell of Concord, N. H., who have been visiting with Mr. and Mrs. N. S. Palmer at Evergreen farm in Irving Valley, left Wednesday for Cotton, Calif., where they will spend the winter.

The W. O. W. have leased the M. W. A. hall and will hold the next regular meeting there on December 13th. Word comes from Chicago of the serious illness of Pina Swan, a former resident here.

Mrs. Mayne Macomber went to Chicago Thursday to visit her sister, Mrs. Warren Fields, and family for a short time.

W. W. Roderick was a Chicago visitor for the first part of the week.

C. W. Vohldard's condition is somewhat better.

On Wednesday evening the Senior Ladies Aid society of the M. E. church gave Mrs. M. A. Karmey, their president, a most pleasant surprise, the occasion being her birthday anniversary. The evening was a most pleasant one.

Mrs. J. H. Richards of Janesville was here overnight on Wednesday to attend the surprise party on Mrs. M. A. Karmey.

Broughton's opera-house on New Year's eve given by the local lodge, Dimeola's Superb orchestra will furnish the music.

Mayor C. H. Olsen has been in Madison this week on business.

Mrs. Lena V. Newman is contemplating spending the holidays in South Dakota.

Showing Value of Forests. A most striking example of the transforming effect of forests, not only on the appearance, but on the productivity of a country, is afforded by the department of the Landes in France. At the close of the eighteenth century about 2,500,000 acres in that region were "little more than shifting sand dunes and disease-breeding marshes. At present the same lands are among the richest, most productive and healthful in France, and the change has been brought about by intelligent cultivation of pine forests. Even the character of the climate of the region has been ameliorated and it has become mild and balmy. A thin layer of soil beneath the sandy upper surface of clay, formerly impervious to water, has been pierced by the pine roots until a thorough drainage is established to the spongy earth below.

TAFT SAYS CONGRESS WILL AID RIVERWAYS

Tells Deep Water Delegation That Present Session Will Begin Definite Task.

Washington, Dec. 10.—President Taft assured delegations who visited him at the White House that steps looking toward the development of a system of waterway improvements would be taken by the present session of congress.

Four governors and two ex-governors headed the committee of 500, which had been charged by the New Orleans convention to present to the president resolutions asking for a 14-foot channel for the Mississippi.

Gov. Deneen presented the resolutions and the president replied in part:

"I hope that we are all engaged in a work in which we stand shoulder to shoulder, without respect to a particular locality, and that if you gentlemen who are interested in a particular improvement and that your view may not be entirely met and that your particular project may not be the first one taken up in a substantial way it will not prevent your welcoming a step by congress that when taken means the embracing of every improvement that ought to commend itself to those who are familiar with congress."

Mr. Taft expressed to the Ohio delegation, who sought his support for a nine-foot channel from Pittsburg to Cairo, regret that his remarks before the rivers and harbors congress had cast a "wet blanket" over the convention, and said that he had only intended to help the gathering along by pointing out the practical method of accomplishing the object desired.

Mr. Taft said he had been assured by members of committees which have such legislation in charge that the whole matter of waterway improvement would receive earnest consideration during the present session.

FIRE DRIVES 300 GUESTS OUT.

Kalamazoo Suffers $1,000,000 Blaze Which Destroys Half a Block.

Kalamazoo, Mich., Dec. 10.—One fire probably was lost, many firemen were overcome by smoke, 300 hotel guests were driven, scantily clad, into the icy streets, and property valued at approximately $1,000,000 was destroyed by a fire which was only extinguished after an all-night struggle by combined fire fighting forces of Kalamazoo, Battle Creek and Grand Rapids.

Starting in the basement of the Star Bazaar House, a five and ten cent store, at 118 West Main street, the flames, fanned by a strong southwest wind, spread eastward along the north side of Main street, destroying the Hurdlock house, a fine four-story hotel and store building, covering more than half a city block.

LIGHT SHED ON KIDNAPED GIRL.

Mother Arranges to Meet Representatives of Kidnappers.

Louisville, Ky., Dec. 10.—The first light upon the mysterious disappearance of Alma Katherine Kellner, the eight-year-old daughter of Frederick Kellner, brewer of this city, was furnished when Mrs. Kellner declared that a meeting had been arranged between herself and envoys of the kidnappers.

The child was kidnapped on the street Wednesday morning by two persons, one believed to be a man, although both wore woman's clothing, and was taken away in a wagon.

Owing to the prominence of the Kellner family the kidnapping stirred the city to its depths. Police in every city in the middle west were notified and are searching for the child and her kidnappers.

Peru Gets United States Race Horses.

New York, Dec. 10.—On the steamship Panama, leaving New York for Colon were 16 thoroughbred race horses bound for Peru. Ten of them were purchased at Lexington for the Peruvian Jockey club, which is financed by the Peruvian government. The horses will reach their destination in about two weeks.

Buy Piano with Peanuts.

West Orange, N. J., Dec. 10.—The humble peanut is the agency through which the teachers of St. Mark's public school have obtained a new piano. When their request for the piano was refused by the board of education they purchased raw peanuts and roasted and sold them at a profit to pupils and their friends.

Man Picked by Hen Is Dead.

Rayville, N. Y., Dec. 10.—Blood poisoning caused by the peck of a hen Thanksgiving day caused the death of William Tucker, 81 years old. Mr. Tucker, who was a Hollander, settled here about 60 years ago and the town was for many years known as Tuckertown.

Farmer Gets $300,000 on Patent.

St. Louis, Dec. 10.—Alvin J. Hoskins has sold the United States his patent rights to a range finder or distance appraiser for $300,000. Hoskins lives at Upper Alton, Ill., and is a farmer and hardware merchant when not trying to invent something.

Nurse Cuts Her Throat.

Baldwinsville, Ill., Dec. 10.—Miss Bernice Skinner, head nurse at the American hospital, committed suicide by cutting her throat. Temporary insanity was the cause.

Lamar Middleton Dead.

Paris, Dec. 10.—Lamar Middleton, correspondent of the Chicago Daily News, died of diabetes. He came to Paris in 1927.

SENOR SALVADOR CASTRIELLO—The Nicaraguan Insurgents' Agent at Washington.

Washington, Dec. 10.—The eyes of all the members of the diplomatic circle are centered on Senor Salvador Castriello, the diplomatic agent of the Nicaraguan Insurgents. He is in constant touch with Provisional President Estrada and is giving the American public all the news from the riot ridden republic. Victory means the elevation of Estrada to the presidency and the appointment of Castriello as minister of Nicaragua to the United States.

New Wireless System in Russia.

The military department at St. Petersburg is taking considerable interest in a new system of wireless telegraphy which has been invented by a Russian student. It is claimed that messages have been sent from St. Petersburg to Sevastopol and received accurately. One of the principal features of the new system is that messages cannot be tapped by outside stations, and it is intended to build a station in the Ural mountains to connect with a similar station to be built in Vladivostok. The station will be built by the military engineers at a cost of about $50,000 gold.

Living "Letter Box." Outside the west central district postoffice in London a postman has been stationed with a large bag to act as "letter box," the boxes having been closed.

Daily Thought. We know for what we are. Character teaches above our wills. Men imagine that they communicate their virtue or vice only by overt actions, and do not see that virtue or vice emit a breath every moment.—Emerson.

Kissing Privileges Barred. George Shinto of New Jersey, has just been bound over under a heavy penalty for kissing his wife against her will. Justice Ware warned the man not to kiss his wife again without first obtaining her consent.

Character. Character is the divinest thing on earth. It is the one thing that you can put into the shop or into the study and be sure that the fire is going to burn.—Phillips Brooks.

A Good Alarm Clock. Husband—"Why don't you have Bridget shut the kitchen door? One can smell the breakfast cooking all over the house." Wife—"We leave it open on purpose. The smell is all that gets the family up."—Judge.

Gastronomic Disaster. A big fat alderman at a turtle dinner exclaimed to a bore: "Your confounded questions and talk have made me swallow a big piece of green turtle fat without getting to taste it."

A Cynical Citizen. "Is your town improving?" "Yep," answered Bronco Bob. "The figures show that the tone of Crimmon Gulch is improv'n'. The population has decreased ten per cent. In the last year and I don't know of anybody whose absence wouldn't be a benefit."

JEALOUS OPERATOR
CAUSE OF DISASTER

PERMITS SHIP TO BURN BY REFUSING TO REPLY
TO CALL.

STEAMER CLARION IS LOST

Bad Feeling Between Rival Wireless Companies Results in Death of
Two Mariners—Thirteen Others
Adrift in Cold.

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 10.—According to the report of a wireless operator here, the jealousy existing between rival companies was the cause of permitting mariners on the burning freighter Clarion to either lose their lives or drift about in the bitter cold in a lifeboat.

Had the steamship Pope answered the query of the Detroit station when the C. Q. D. call was flashed out from that vessel upon the discovery of the burning Clarion two miles south of Pelee Island, the two lives that were lost in the frozen waste could have been saved.

Operator Wouldn't Talk.
Instead, however, of grasping at the first chance that offered of securing aid, it is said the operator on the steamship Pope would not talk to Detroit because his call had been stolen by a rival company instead of being answered by his own. Detroit was the nearest point from which aid could have been sent to the burning ship.

Twenty miles down the river and at its mouth is the town of Amherstburg, where are stationed numerous wrecking tug which could have reached the scene of the disaster twenty miles out in the lake inside of two hours.

Had jealousy not interfered these could have been informed by the Detroit station of the impending disaster and the tugs could have removed the men before they were in danger from the flames.

Thirteen members of the Clarion's crew left in a lifeboat, and are still missing, while six were rescued from the burning boat and taken to Cleveland. The mate, James Thompson, died from exposure, while Joseph McCauley, an officer, fell overboard and was drowned.

JUUL TAX LAW TO BE TESTED.

Attorney General Stead Takes Charge of Case.

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 10.—Attorney General William H. Stead was ordered to appear before the supreme court and file a brief and argument in the case of Booth versus The County Clerk of Sangamon County, the question at issue in which the constitutionality of the amendment to what is known as the "Juul" law, passed by the general assembly at its last session.

The case will prove of state-wide interest by virtue of its bearing on the taxation of Illinois. The original "Juul" law limited the taxes to five per cent. to the assessed value. The amendment reduced the taxes to three per cent. and included the educational tax with a minimum of 1 1/2 per cent. Judge Croghon of the circuit court of this county held the amendment invalid at a recent hearing, whereupon the case was taken to the supreme court.

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

HEALTH is a duty.

Health is an adornment.

I don't believe any one, if he stops to think, will deny either of those facts. And yet, how many people are really ashamed when they fail in that duty or lack that adornment?

"I give myself but five hours' sleep a night," I heard a man say the other day.

If he breaks down he will doubtless be very resentful and unhappy, but I doubt if he will be what he really ought to be—ashamed.

"Oh, yes, I have some glasses, and the doctor says I ought to wear them all the time, but I don't like the looks of them and I seldom wear them except at home," declared a girl I know, apparently rather glorying in that childish vanity.

If her eyes give out, since she depends upon them for her livelihood, she will undoubtedly be heartbroken, but I doubt if she will remember to be ashamed.

In the earlier part of the nineteenth century it was considered highly attractive for a woman to be rather delicate, and almost vulgar, for her to be thoroughly robust and healthy.

I have heard people say how glad they are that we have gotten rid of that idea, but I don't think we have altogether.

Look at the girls in your acquaintance who are considered pretty girls. Look at the pictures of pretty girls in the magazines and newspapers.

Health is by no means always an element of their beauty. But I think it should be.

I think we should as soon think of calling a girl beautiful who is not healthy as a house or a temple architecturally beautiful when it is not built on a good foundation.

I realize that we cannot all make ourselves entirely healthy, but we can all do a good deal towards it, and we can all learn to be proud of possessing health and ashamed rather than sorry when we do not possess it.

When people are ashamed to be sick—

When no one will think of calling a girl pretty unless she is healthy—

When we shall hide the fact that some one of our family has been ill with almost as much shame as two would if he went to jail—

When ill health shall be regarded as far more of a disgrace than poverty—

Then the perfectly healthy man or woman will be the rule rather than the exception.

HOME-MADE CHRISTMAS GIFTS OF LEATHER

(By Margaret Dryden.)

Christmas is coming and we all want to give the gift that the one we love desires. Time and thought must determine this, even if the purse be so full that the realm of Tantalus is a joy, and not the least of Tantalus that it is to some of us. To those of limited means and unlimited desire the season is a busy one, for loving fingers must make the simple, inexpensive gift of value and time is precious. The shops are full of suggestions and patterns. Stencils and embroidery designs—leather and materials of brass work—all are teeming with the thought of gifts for old and young.

The making of leather gifts is one that always finds approval, and many are the ways to use the soft, beautiful

Initial may be either embroidered in a contrasting color with silk floss or burnt.

Blotting Pad. Cut a bit of corrugated packing board the size you wish your blotter. Cover the under side with either a pretty tinted wall paper or even a piece of crumpled paper if you have some on hand that will do. Cut several sheets of blotting paper to the exact size. Cut the leather into triangles and with a sharp pair of scissors or a very keen knife cut a design in it to allow the blotting paper to show through. Fasten these across the corners underneath with brass tacks. A dainty design is good and easy to cut, and makes attractive edges.

A Music Roll. For the musician of the family nothing could be more appropriate than a music roll of a pretty shade of leather. These may take the form of the simple, old-fashioned roll, with a handle and straps attached on with heavy silk thread, or the newer bag may be made. To make the latter use a piece of leather large enough to hold a music book and turn over a flap at the top. Stitch on the straps about the middle of the main piece and the handle where at the top flap has been left. Then take a bit of heavy silk of the same or contrasting shade and the size of the main part of the bag and embroider the initial or monogram of the recipient. From the upper edge and paste this carefully to the leather, turning in the lower edges, and stitch around twice, the inner row an eighth of an inch inside of the first. The music is to be slipped into this case. The buckles which are fastened to the edge of the flap may be either small buckles or fancy ones. The bag will hold the music straight, or if no book is used it may be turned up one-half.

A little thought will enable the worker to use every scrap of the leather to advantage, and as leather seems peculiarly appropriate to the uses of men, some of the hardest Christmas problems, the gifts to the man of the house, may thus be solved. Stamp cases, tooth brush bags lined of course with oiled silk; collar and cuff cases; pillows, the uses to which leather may be put, are almost unlimited, and the results are more pleasing than the things usually offered men. Stencils, embroidery and cut work may all be used acceptably. The recipient would be glad to purchase a whole skin and use every bit that is left after the special gift for which you plan has been made.

SOME SUGGESTIONS FOR CHRISTMAS GAMES FOR FAMILY GATHERINGS

By ELEANOR ALLYN.

The north pole will be in evidence this Christmas. Even the children have taken an interest in the recent discovery of the elusive pole and will be delighted to have the "home of Santa Claus" represented. With a lavish supply of white cheese cloth, glittering tinsel, cotton, pop corn and candy, a very good effect may be made. Spread sheets on the floor to simulate snow. Have a large barrel covered with cheese cloth and sprinkled with glittering mica. Around the edges have long, irregular sticks of cream candy to represent icicles while at the base of the barrel pile pop corn balls. Use as little cotton as possible as there is always the fear of fire. Have all the candles white and arranged at a distance from the pole. If the "pole" is arranged in the bay window, sacred to Christmas trees, arrange the candles in the little candle holders to make an arch of light about the glittering pole. All the "Toody" bears that are owned by the family or that you can borrow will help to decorate the children. Sticks, intended for gifts, skates, sweaters, etc., can be arranged to add interest to the scene. At the back may be holiday greens, and ropes of cedar and fir should trim the room. At the back of the barrel have an opening and instead of the regulation Santa have someone dressed in white swansdown flannel to represent a polar bear. A music face can be bought and a little ingeniously will make a surprisingly good representation of a big bear. After the children have assembled a little speech about Santa's home that has been found will delight the smaller ones and when at the end the big white bear appears dragging a big bundle after him he will be received with great delight. The pack when it is opened will be found to contain the gifts.

Popcorn Balls. To make the popcorn balls boil together two cups of granulated sugar, four tablespoons of cold vinegar, butter the size of a walnut and a half cup of water. When the syrup drops wax from the spoon it is done. Have a large pan of fresh popped corn and pour the hot syrup over it stirring constantly. Flour the hands and press into balls while hot, or it will not stick. The balls should be fresh and kept in a very dry place or they will be tough.

Cream Candy for Icicles. Three cups of white sugar. Add water enough to cover and boil until it hardens when dropped into cold water. Melted cream (unsweetened) of cream tartar with flavoring and add just before removing from the fire. Pull when cold until white and fashion into long, irregular sticks. Remember that the candy must be stirred after it begins to boil or it will sugar. A clean cloth should be wet in cold water and used to wipe off the crystals that form on the sides of the pan when cooking.

Cocoanut Cream Snow Flakes. Balls of cocoanut cream may be made and will add to the effect as well as please the children. They should be made two or three days before Christmas as they take that long to harden. One and a half pounds of sugar and one cocoanut. Heat sugar and milk of cocoanut together slowly until sugar is melted, then boil five minutes, and the cocoanut which must be finely grated, boil hard for ten minutes more, stirring constantly to prevent burning. Pour on buttered plates and when cool enough to handle cut in squares and roll squares in the shredded cocoanut. Set aside for two days to harden.

CHILD'S LINEN FROCK. Here is a pretty little linen dress, very effective in its design and decoration of hand-embroidery. In Persian colors. The sleeves reach to the elbow only, and are cut with the dress. The little neck is square, showing a daintily tucked gimp of batiste. Two strips of the embroidery occupy the center of the front, and wash brand, slightly darker than the linen—a grey blue—is used as trimming. The belt used may be either one of the material or a leather one according to taste. This little frock would be suitable for a little girl's dress or for a boy, if less than four years of age.

All Have Right to Share. Inventions and discoveries are not the property of one nation, but ought to be utilized and developed for the common good of mankind.—Lord Alverstone.

A Clever New Creation. Five very important new features, as follows, actually appear in the interesting coffee substitute now known to grocers as Dr. Sloop's Health Coffee:

1st—Is the Economy—costs two-thirds less than real coffee and costs less than 10¢ per pound.

2nd—Both health and general strength follow its use. For pure roasted grains, malt, etc., are alone used in this wholesome food-like drink.

3rd—Not a grain of real coffee is in it, and yet the rich, taste and flavor are exactly like those of genuine old Java and Mocha Coffee.

4th—"Made in a minute"—No 20 to 30 minutes tedious boiling is at all necessary.

A 25¢ package, 1½ pounds, gives 100 full cups of this splendid drink. Write Dr. Sloop, Racine, Wis. for his free booklet, Coffee Bangers.

ALL ABOUT THE HOUSE

Why has the giving of Christmas gifts become a job for the cartoonist? Is it because we are selfish or thoughtless? It is so easy to find out what those we love want that only a little care will bring the gift that is ardently desired. The art of making people happy in their way, not yours, is one to be cultivated.

If you are leading the strenuous life of a housewife and mother do not, in mercy to yourself, try to make a number of elaborate gifts for Christmas. The shops are full of dainty gifts that are within the reach of all. True you can make a gift that will be of greater value for the same amount of money that a gift ready-made would cost, but do you count the cost to yourself? And where does the family come in on the jangled nerves that are a part of the usual Christmas worry?

Hanging Out the Clothes.—One of the difficult problems of the housekeeper who does her own washing is the hanging out of the clothes in cold weather. Many a cold that has run into more serious trouble has come from this distasteful duty, and chapped hands are almost inevitable. To make easy work of it have a clothes horse strong with rope and pin the clothes on securely in the house, and either wrap up properly before taking it out doors or have one of the children take it out, and spread in the air and sunshine. If the washing is a large one the small articles may be pinned on the clothes horse, but the larger ones will have to be taken care of differently. Have some hooks put up in the kitchen to exactly correspond with those for putting up the line out of doors. Have loops in the end of the clothes line and slip over the in-door hooks. Pin the clothes in place securely, take down the rope, clothes unhooked, and fold down in a clothes basket. To take the basket out of doors and slip the loops over the out-door hooks is a brief bit of work, and can be done with gloved hands. Several short lines are better than one long one, as the long one will make too heavy a load to carry when filled with wet clothes.

Natural Ink. The River of Natural Ink is a natural curiosity said to exist in Algeria. It is caused by the junction of two streams, one of which drains a region strongly impregnated with iron, while the other flows from a peat-bog and holds a large quantity of gallic acid in solution. The union of these two streams causes the iron and the gallic acid to combine, and thus produces a genuine ink.

CASING WEATHER IN THE TOBACCO SHEDS

Past Week Before Freeze-Up Was Good for the Hanging Crop.

According to the Edgerton Reporter, a season of casing weather accompanied by fog and several days of moderate temperature brought the hanging tobacco in very fair condition
for removing from the curing sheds
during the week, and the writer is credibly informed that quite a considerable per cent of the '09 crop has been taken down. In some instances
the top there did not reach the desired
case but some portions of almost every shed were cured up and could have come down if growers desired. The damp prevailed very generally over all growing sections of the state. Farmers can now turn their attention to stripping and between now and the first of the year a good many crops will be prepared for delivery. It is hardly probable, however, that many of the packers will not receive days until after the holiday season. Winter weather now having arrived there is little danger in putting the crop into bundles. So much of the crop is under contract, it is fair to presume, that growers will exercise care in stripping
and preparing their tobacco for market in order to avoid trouble on delivery.

"The buying movement is dragging along in the same manner as for the month past. Representatives of the American Tobacco company continue in the field and while not closing contracts for large quantities, in the aggregate add materially to their holdings each week. Some riding is also being done by a few independent buyers in search for better grades, for which something near earlier quotations
are being made. Altogether
there is no great activity noticeable.

"The market for cured leaf has developed no news of importance. A few hundred cases, mainly of the cheaper grades, have changed hands during the week and there is just enough small trading on manufacturers' orders to indicate that business is moving in its customary channels. The larger trades in Wisconsin leaf have lately
been conducted in the eastern centers.
Casing weather during the week has given growers an opportunity to remove for stripping as much of the new crop as they desire and the next few weeks will be devoted to preparing it for the market. We have yet to learn that any of the packers contemplate
opening their warehouses until after the holiday season.

"The shipments out of storage reach 1297 cases from this market to all points for the week."

COOK'S TEAM LEADS

Osborn's Five Defeated Last Evening
and Dropped Back to Second Place Even with G. Helise.

Osborn's bowling team, which with Cook's five has been leading the race
for the championship of the bowling league, was defeated last night and pushed back to second place by their rivals. The match was very closely played, the Osborn team rolling better than their opponents in the first game,
Cook's team won in the end by but 16 points. Osborn's team is now tied with G. Helise's team and on Tuesday evening next they will try conclusions
to see which shall be eliminated from the running for first place. W. Helise
bowled the highest score last night—184 plus. The results of the match were:

Poormaster Seaguller Takes Excep-

Are 500 Poor in Beloit.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Beloit, Wis., Dec. 9.—The Salvation Army have issued a circular calling on the public for funds for the Christmas dinner stating that there are 500
poor in Beloit. To this, Poormaster Seaguller takes exception. He says that he has but twelve families in his care in Beloit. He fears the announcement of the army implies a condition
of distress that does not exist.
Prof. R. Reinisch of the University of Wisconsin, an authority on Japanese affairs, in his address before the Six O'clock club last night said that in his associations with the Japanese people he had never heard any suggestion of a desire for the Japs to go to war with any other nation. They want to avoid war, Prof. Reinisch said.
The Japs were given great interest in the University of the varsity team there
last summer. A number of the Japanese expressed themselves as delighted with the American spirit of fairness and gallantry in connection with the games. It is believed that a number of Japs will attend the university the coming year. The club is getting ready for general discussion of

FOUR CITIES SOLD
BY THE OLEO GANG

Internal Revenue Collector Alleges
That Five Thousand Pounds Was Disposed of by Graham.

As a result of investigations which he has made in connection with alleged oleomargarine frauds with which
A. E. Graham, who was arrested here, is charged, Beecher Sterne, internal revenue collector, said on Thursday he had found dealers in Oakshosh, Manitowish, Janesville and Milwaukee, who had purchased oleomargarine from
A. E. Graham, supposing it to be butter and selling it for such.
Mr. Sterne produced a picture of Graham which they identified as that of the man who had sold the product
to them. During the period from Oct.
13 to Nov. 6, Mr. Sterne says he has evidence to show that Graham disposed of 5,000 pounds of oleomargarine
in those four cities.

A. E. Graham now is being held in Madison and will be examined before a court commissioner before being tried in the United States district court. Judge A. L. Barnum will try the case.

Edward Klimka, who was arrested
in Milwaukee as being the head of the concern, has been held for trial on a similar charge, his bail being fixed at one thousand dollars.

Klimka was arrested with James H.
Davis, who paid Graham's fine in the municipal court and who was exonerated last Friday by the court commissioner in Milwaukee and discharged
from custody.

It was alleged that the two bought
oleo from Moxley Bros. of Chicago,
colored it so that it looked like genuine butter, then sold it to grocers.

The chain of evidence against Klimka
was much stronger than that against Davis. Klimka will now have to await action of the next federal grand jury,
and then, if indicted, stand trial in the court of Judge J. V. Quarles.

HABIT'S CHAIN

Certain Habits Unconsciously Formed
and Hard to Break.

An ingenious philosopher estimates
that the amount of will power necessary to break a lifelong habit would
if it could be transformed, fill a weight of many tons.
It sometimes requires a higher degree of heroism to break the chains
of a pernicious habit than to load a furlong horse in a bloody battle. A lady writes from an Indiana town:
"From my earliest childhood I was a lover of coffee. Before I was one of my tomes I was a miserable dyspeptic, suffering terribly at times with my stomach.
"I was convinced that it was coffee
that was causing the trouble and yet
I could not deny myself a cup for breakfast. At the age of 34 I was in very poor health indeed. My sister told me I was in danger of becoming a coffee drunkard.
"But I never could give up drinking coffee for breakfast although it kept
me constantly ill, until I tried Postum.
I learned to make it properly according to directions, and now we can hardly do without Postum for breakfast, and care nothing at all for coffee."
"I am no longer troubled with dyspepsia, do not have spells of suffering
with my stomach that used to trouble
me so when I drank coffee.
"Look in pages for the little book,
"The Road to Wellville." There's a Reason.
Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

importance to their own selves of the great crusade. The present generation of children and future generations
will receive the greatest benefit, for although their elders are even now
feeling results, it takes time to eradicate a scourge that has gained such an appalling hold on the people. The children of today, when they grow up will appreciate and give thanks that they could do the work that made the crusade possible."

The first prize, a complete Aero vacuum cleaning system, donated by the American Air Cleaning Co., Milwaukee, will be awarded to the city
of 2,000 and over, which sells before December 31, the greatest number of Wisconsin stamps, in proportion to the population at the time of the last census, 1920.

The winning city has the privilege of selecting the school in which the system is to be installed, without a cent of expense to bear.

This method of cleaning school rooms is considered the most modern system for suppressing and removing germ-poisoned dirt and stale, germ-laden air, the greatest measures to the health of pupils. Pipes extend from each room to the plant and receptacle in the basement.

By means of special tools attached to the piping by flexible tubes, the operator can clean a room in a short time. Dirt and air is withdrawn at the rate of four cubic feet per minute
and dusts and dirt are absolutely necessitated. Janitor expense is reduced to a minimum. The school is made beautiful, instead of being a
"clearing house for disease."

WESTERN PLAY PRODUCED
AT THEATRE LAST NIGHT

"In Wyoming" Western Play with Life and Vini but No Shooting.
Pleased Fair-Sized Audience.
"In Wyoming," a play cleverly depicting Western men and Western customs, yet lacking the usual amount of shooting that characterizes most western plays, was presented last evening at the Myers Theatre. A fair-sized audience attended the show
and pressed their appreciation of its merits freely. The plot of the play centered about "Stub Richards," a character somewhat similar to Owen Wister's "Virgilina." Richards' conduct, while not always in accordance with Eastern standards of ethics, is just as he thinks it right and invariably it turns out that he is, without back,
the author of the play, has introduced
some very interesting scenes into the play. The company which appeared here last evening gave a very creditable performance.

GUESTS SPRANG SURPRISE
ON DR. GEORGE H. WEBSTER

Appearance of Friends at His Party in
"Old Clothes" Was Quite Unexpected by Host.

Dr. George H. Webster entertained
a number of the members of the Old Folk's club at a party held last evening at his home, 67 Terrace street. The affair was in honor of his birthday,
former anniversaries having been spent in a like manner. A pleasing feature of the entertainment was the "surprise" the guests sprang on the host, all of them appearing in old clothes. The evening was most en-joyably spent.

CLEVER DETECTIVE
LETS OUT A SECRET

Pet Dogs Poisoned by Dealers of Canines—Not by the Neighbors.

Every so often reports are heard
in Janesville of valuable pet dogs being poisoned. Recently several dogs
in this manner, some on the streets,
St. Hubert, the detective, was recently interviewed by a lady whose pet has met his fate and as he stroked
the head of the dead dog thought-
fully said:
"You suspect, madam, your nervous
neighbor because Fido's barking would not let him sleep. You also suspect your left-hand neighbor because Fido once slipped him slightly on the ankle. But your suspicions are wrong. Those men are too honorable
to poison a registered dog."
The little detective closed absently
the half-open eyes of the dejected animal.

"In the dealers, the dog dealers,"
said he, "upon whom your suspicions
should be directed. At this pre-holiday season, madam, dog dealers, all over the world send out embassies
with balls of chopped liver and powdered glass, with cutlets of nutmeg
dipped in prussic acid, and with cakes
powdered with arsenic or Paris green.
These little are fed to the valuable dogs of the rich. Then, on toward Christmas, by means of children, the battered owners of the murdered animals are led unsuspectingly to the shops of the murderers. It is a mean and potently built up trade. Do they do such things in Janesville? No; I guess
not. Besides, we have no regular dog dealers here."

Mrs. Shallcross Explains Presence of Women in Her Apartments.

In the following letter to the Gazette
an explanation of the circumstances
which led to the presence of Eliza Blue in the Shallcross apartments is made by Mrs. Shallcross. The communication is as follows:
Editor of Gazette:

On coming from my work tonight I found a piece in your paper that hurts
me very much.
I work every day and so do my two boys. My husband is not able to work outside, as several doctors here can tell you, but he looks after things at home. Mary James came to our apartments inquiring for W. F. Ingles on Saturday night when it was storming
and I let her stay awhile and warm herself. Then she went away saying that she was going to Madison to see the party whom she claims was a friend of her's, but she did not go as she was here when I came from my work Monday noon. My folks told her to go away, but she was in no shape
to do so and so Mr. John Brown was called in to care for her. We never saw the woman before and she told us her name was Mabel Lane. As for Eliza Blue, she came along and wanted work and I let her do some for me
and she made her stopping place at the Railroad hotel, so she said. She was here working the day Mary J. was taken from here by Mr. Brown. Surely, if my house is what it was represented to be by her talk at the police station I never would have turned the Blue of them away.

I work hard all the time and can prove by reliable parties what I am,
also what my boys and Mr. Shallcross are. Anyone is welcome to come and search my apartments at any time
without giving us any warning if they think anything wrong is done there.
If any more such pieces appear in the paper the statements will have to be proven by whoever makes them.

AND BOYS.

ONE MORE DAY FOR
SANTA CLAUS MAIL

Mail Bag Is Nearly Full and Will Be Sent to Good Old Saint on Saturday.

Hurry, you little boys and girls if you have not written to Santa Claus
yet and get your letter into his mail
bag which will leave on Saturday-morrow night.
Write on one side
of the paper, and
have your letters
printed or written as
plainly as possible.
If you put them in
the postoffice, place
a two-cent stamp on
them but if you leave them at the Gazette office you will not have to put any stamp on the envelope.
The idea of Santa Claus and his annual visit is handed down to this country from Germany. It really began way back in the Bible days when the "Wise Men of the East" came to the lowly manger in Bethlehem with their gifts for the newborn Messiah.
—The Christchild lying there in the manger in swaddling clothes—St. Nicholas, or Kris (Krische he is called in Germany, and Santa Claus in England and America and where the English language is spoken. He is the same good old chap he was when young and girls and when their fathers
and mothers were children before them. He is so old that to go back as far as you can he is still to have been found making his annual visits
on Christmas Eve.
It does not snow, little people, if there is no snow for his sleigh to travel over. He flies through the air and so swift does he come and go
that none can see him. He pops out of his sleigh and down the chimney
he comes and your stockings are filled
in a trice and he is away to some other little girl's or boy's house to repeat his trip. Dear old Santa lives to make people happy.

Like all happy and contented people,
who laugh much and worry little, he is fat and has a smile on his face all the time. He loves to bring a bit of his happiness and good cheer to you and so he comes each year on his journeys of love, teaching the big knowings that he still lives for the little boys and girls and that peace on earth and good will at this Christmas
time remains true.

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

PIN EARS.

Pin Ears was a bucking broncho. In his way he was an actor and on occasions like "frontier day" did his stunt as any other professional.

Pin Ears was a tight little pony, with muscles of steel, a quick mind and a rebellious disposition.

From his birth he was a rebel. No man ever stayed long on his back. The smallest broncho buster in Wyoming met more than their match when they straddled bucking Pin Ears.

He was a graceful little brute, and to look at him you would not think his name spelled disaster. But he had an instinctive hatred of the saddle. Finally one day his owner roped him, and the perverse pony threw himself, breaking his neck.

Do you know there are men just like that pony?

They have never been "broken" to the saddle and rebel against carrying the common burdens of life. We must all carry. By bucking they succeed for a time in dodging their duty. But their end is as inglorious as that of the rebellious pony.

Because—

It was decreed in the beginning that the horse should obey the bit and the man should do his task.

The horse was never built for successful revolt against his master, man, nor man for continuous rebellion against his master, God.

The horse must learn to be "bridled" and the man must learn to obey the law of God which demands that man must labor.

Besides—

It is not profitable to kick against the goads.

To undergo the strain that is necessary to shake an expert rider off his back is mighty hard work for a pony. Likewise it requires a strain for a man to go through the world without performing honest labor. He who gets without giving must be even more strenuous than he who gets by rendering honest equivalents.

It is harder work to continually dodge a task than to perform it.

The outlaw and the wanderer may, like Pin Ears, shine for a day because of audacity and shrewdness; but, like the pony, they cannot always elude the disaster that is coming.

Don't be a Pin Ears.

Berlin "Newsboys."

The up-to-date newsboy of New York can learn something in Berlin, writes a New Yorker from that city. "One of the popular sellers of newspapers in this town is a gray-bearded, tall, solidly looking man, who has the papers attached—one copy of each publication—to a long fishing rod, on the top of which there is a little pocket for coins. People on omnibuses and at upper windows may be served by means of the rod. They help themselves to the paper they desire, deposit their money in the little bag, and the solid paper is replaced by another from the stock which the old man carries in a bag slung over his shoulder. The children in the district where he does business call him the "nickel fisher."

MICROBES IN THE SCALP

The Latest Explanation is that Microbes Cause Baldness

Professor Anna of Hamburg, Germany, and Dr. Sahm, of Paris, France, share the honor of having discovered the hair microbe.

Baldness is not caused through a few weeks' work of these hair microbes, but is the result of conditions brought about by their presence. Baldness may not occur until years after the microbes begin work, but it is certain to come sooner or later.

The microbes cut off the blood supply. They feed on the fatty matter about the roots of the hair, through which the blood is absorbed. Finally the fatty matter is consumed, the food supply of the hair is gone and it starves and finally dies.

Roskell is one of the most effective germ destroyers ever discovered. Beta Naphthol is a most powerful, yet absolutely safe germicide and antiseptic, which prevents development of germ matter, and creates a clean, healthy condition.

Phosphorus, although not a coloring matter or dye, is an ingredient well established for its power to restore natural color to human hair when loss of color has been caused by a disease.

Borax, because of its well-defined softening and cleansing properties, is most useful in the treatment of scalp and hair diseases. Glycerine acts as a stimulant to the hair bulbs, and has a soothing, healing and nourishing influence. Alcohol is indispensable in medicine because of its antiseptic, stimulating and preservative qualities.

We want every one who has scalp or hair trouble to try Roskell "93" Hair Tonic, which contains all these ingredients. If it does not give you complete satisfaction in every particular, we will return every penny you paid us for it, for the formula.

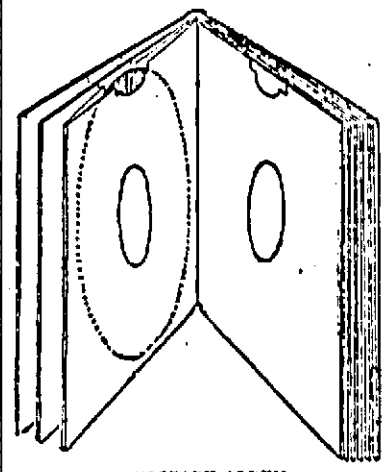

Of course you understand that when we say that Roskell "93" Hair Tonic will grow hair we do not refer to cases where the roots are entirely dead, the pores of the scalp closed, and the head has the shiny appearance of a billiard ball. In cases like this there is no hope. In all other cases of baldness Roskell "93" Hair Tonic will grow hair, or cost the user nothing. Two sizes, 50 cents and $1.00. Remember you can obtain Roskell Remedies in Jansville only at our store, The Roskell Store, The Smith Drug Co.

Christmas Presents

For reasons of sentiment and economy it is often preferable to fashion Christmas presents for brothers at home. A few suggestions are given for articles that combine the three qualities of attractiveness, usefulness and inexpensiveness.

There are lots of brothers who own phonographs who will be happy Christmas morning if they find that some member of the family has made them a holder for phonograph disks. This album is made slightly larger than a square that would box a disk. Its pages are of heavy cardboard, and around each page is folded a sheet of heavy paper with a circular opening in the center of each fold. This provides a pocket on each side of the page in which a record disk can be kept.

Its name is visible through a circular opening. If the disks are kept in the album in alphabetical order and the pages indexed the finding of any record desired is a matter of seconds, and the risk of breakage is eliminated.

Soldier Suit For Small Boys.

Boys from six to twelve years of age always love to play at soldiering, so why not make one of them a sure enough rough rider suit in which to indulge his warlike proclivities? There are patterns on the market that make such a suit a simple garment to manufacture. The material used is khaki, with brown trimmings. The suit consists of jacket and regulation long trousers. The jacket has a number of pockets with pointed overlaps. The same pattern trimmed with red and yellow cotton strips cut up into fringe could easily be transformed into an Indian suit, and with a feathered head-dress the costume would be complete.

Something Clever in Penknives.

The question of a really attractive gift for a man is solved to some extent by a novelty in the way of a penknife. The new idea is a silver knife of the finest quality, with an emblem worked out in colored French enamel inserted in the case.

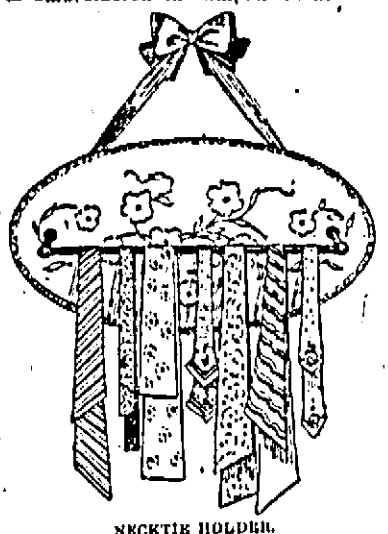

The insignia of his college society or his crest is attractively wrought in color, making the little keepsake something quite out of the usual run. Girls who are adept at making arts and crafts jewelry would find no difficulty in working the emblems into the silver penknife.

A Novelty in Leather.

One of the new leather triple cases for bills and all manner of memoranda would be a fine Christmas present. The top case holds a thin, shallow wallet which has a white surface and black lettering. It is large and distinct and is readily seen and so thin that it does not make a bulge in the case.

Necktie Holder.

Necktie holders are not new things in the way of gifts, but they have the advantage of being useful and always acceptable. Two or three such affairs are not too many for the collection of ties the college boy or up to date man has among his numerous belongings. The newest necktie holder that has been brought out for Christmas is oval in shape and about a foot or more in length. It is made of a stout piece of cardboard, which may be purchased already cut in the shops or cut by the maker of the offering, as desired. This oval is covered with a piece of grayish heavy crush which is embroidered in sampler fashion in odd old time colorings. The wooden frame from which the ties are hung is also to be bought and is fastened through the cardboard and held in place with carpenter's nuts. To make the gift more personal the monogram of the recipient may be embroidered on the crush.

Imports of Human Hair.

The Island of REGeneration

By CYRUS TOWNSEND BRADY

ILLUSTRATIONS BY RAY WATERS

Ifar training had not been manual, but she was bright enough to supplement her lack of skill and after some hours of hard work she actually got one ear in an upright position and securely lashed. Out of the heavy cloak—more a huge circular than anything else—she improvised a sail with the other ear as a boom-thrust across the boat between the mast and the little forward deck. The coat had been heavily braided. She ripped the silk braid from the edge, cut off the hood of the cloak and managed a triangular sail laced by the silk braid to mast and boom.

The boom was immovable and the only way she could sail was straight before the wind. If the wind shifted, she would shift with it. She had some slight control over the vessel with the helm, but that was all. It was noon when she finished her labors, but she was more than satisfied with what she had accomplished, for the cloak was big enough to give an appreciable way to the boat. She guessed it might be three or four knots an hour. That would be nearly 100 miles a day. She could eke out her provisions and water for five or six days longer and she could go without for two or three days after the last drop and morsel had vanished. Perhaps she might run down a habitable island in that time. Possibly, although this possibility was more faint than the other, she might be seen by some vessel and picked up. At any rate, all she could do was done. She felt better, too, because she had made a human contribution to the determination of her fate. She was no longer absolutely at the play of chance. For five days she sailed steadily on, the breeze remaining even and holding unvaryingly true for that period. She learned the trick of lashing the wheel at night and so was able to take a much rest as her tired, worn and racked body permitted in the confinement of the little boat.

She had abundance of time for thought. Time was when she had revolved in such opportunities, but there was less enjoyment in the chances of the sea now. That she who had lived in the high realm of speculation should suddenly become a woman of action, fighting for life, struck her as a strange thing. Unusually the conditions of her present existence modified her philosophy. It seemed different, a smaller thing. She was less sure and confident of herself alone in the great immensity than in the crowded city. There were no applauding thousands. She breathed no air of adulation. She was alone with her soul. The man who is alone is always face to face with God, though his eyes may be hidden so that he cannot see the Divine. It was so with this woman.

Never had she so craved other companionship. She would have been happy if she could have believed that there was a God, for had there been a God she would not have felt so deserted. So she fought on against her soul and her circumstances—a losing battle.

The sixth day opened dark and gloomy. The wind had risen during the night. The day broke heavily overcast. Even to her inexperience she could realize that a storm was at hand. She had seen nothing during the period; that is, nothing of which she could avail herself. Twice, once to starboard and another time to port, she had passed low lying islands, dim on the horizon. She had no way of checking the boat or of changing its course to run down either of them.

The night fell in a burst of rain which was most grateful to her, but which was a forecast of a fiercer blow, and at midnight the hurricane broke in full force upon the little boat. The first blast tore the sail from the lashing. A lightning flash she caught a glimpse of it for a second, whirled away like a great bird. For some reason, perhaps because one or two shreds of cloth still clung to the mast, and perhaps because the broad blade of the oar offered some surface for the thrust of the wind, she was able by the exercise of constant vigilance and all the strength of which she was capable, to keep the boat before the wind. If she had had no idea of the violence of the wave motion, it was with difficulty that she kept her self from being dashed to, pieces against the sides or hurled overboard in the mad whirling and plunging to which the launch was suddenly subjected. It was caught up by one wave after another and driven on for hours. She could not tell how long. She lost all consciousness of time and of everything else except that she must cling to the helm. The boat was still lurching forward. One great wave after another would seize her, uplift her and bear her on. The strain upon her arms was terrific. She locked her teeth and hung on, breathless, exhausted, yet determined.

But there was a limit to her powers and she felt that it had been reached. Yet she did not deliberately let go. One final and terrific heave jerked her away from the wheel. She fell sprawling in the bottom of the boat, but had sense enough to lock her hands around a thwart and lie there. The launch heaved to in an instant. She was turned broadside to the waves. Fortunately she did not capsize instantly and the next breaker filled her. She lay, her gunwales flush with the water. Her motion was still violent, but less jerky. She was swept overboard by the vast undulations.

The indomitable woman clinging to the thwart managed to keep her head out of the water. She realized that that was the end and yet while she had a remnant of strength, while she could draw a flickering breath, she would not give up. The boat, being water-logged, did not pitch so much as before and she was able to maintain her hold, although every wave that broke over her drenched her again and again.

She wondered why the boat did not sink and then she realized that the empty gasoline tanks which she had closed and locked, prevented the final catastrophe; that the boat was in a certain sense a life boat; that it would float so long as the water pressure did not succeed in opening the tanks. Therefore, she was for the moment safe. The only immediate danger would be the capsizing of the boat which would throw her out. Since the launch was already full of water the woman did not think this was likely to happen.

She held on, her vitality gradually growing weaker, hoping for the morning and an abatement of the storm. She had no idea of time, of course. She could not tell what the hour was. It was still dark, however, when a strange sound smote her ear. She heard it above the wild scream of the wind and the awful beat of the waves. It was a crashing sound, a battering sound, a fearful, portentous sound. The boat ran forward more swiftly now. She wondered the reason. Taking advantage of a brief lull, she abandoned her grip on the thwart and rose to her knees. Immediately in front of her she saw a white wall disclosed to her by the lightning flashes. She did not know what it was. The roaring sound came from thence. She was being borne rapidly toward it. She was nearing it with astonishing swiftness. The boat was moving more quickly now than at any time since she had been in it. At last it broke upon her consciousness that the white wall was a mass of foam; that the sea was crashing against some hidden shore and that great breakers were there.

The land that she had longed for indeed lay athwart her course. In another moment she would be in that mass of boiling foam. Well, she had fought a good fight. The end was at hand. With some instinct of the heroic, death would not find her lying down. Desperately she struggled to her feet and stood, balancing herself to the wild onward rush of the boat. The wall of foam was close at hand. For one second she threw out her arms and the next moment, with a crash which she could feel if not hear, the boat beneath her feet was lifted up and hurled on something fearfully solid. She was thrown through the air like a bolt from a catapult. A wave struck her in the back and beat her almost into insensibility. She was tossed and driven half unconscious over the space of shallow water and rolling sea upon a sandy shore. Blindly she crawled on. The waves seemed suddenly to have lost their power. She did not know that she had been thrown past a barrier reef and carried over a lagoon and dropped on a sea beach; that only the most unusual and gigantic waves could reach her, but she knew that they had little power to harm her. And as she crept desperately and doggedly on until she fell forward in the warm sand and layed into absolute and total unconsciousness.

TABLE OF THE WOMAN WHO TAILED TO SHOP EARLY.

Once upon a Time there was a very beautiful girl in our town. She had many suitors that she disputed the theory that the Law of Supply and Demand governed the matrimonial market. She told them all the same yarn about taking Time to Consider and her Correspondence always became voluminous just before Christmas. She had an idea that Mero Man is legitimate prey at Christmas and she worked her eyes overtime. Baby Stares, coquettish Winks, the Jolly Look, the Glad Eyes—All these and more served her purpose and she always looked a half dozen Live Girls for Things and Things. Long before Yuletide she tried out her looks on the Mirror and on the Dog. Then she would parade down to Slick's Drug Store and wait until they came by. It was so easy for Happy Nellie that she did not consider it work. Now Miss Good Looks was trending the Sky a little too rapidly and it was perfectly natural that it should befall that one Sir Knight should win her heart. When she found she was really all to Piekles on a young thoroughbred about town, Christ-mas lost all its charm. For once in her young life she decided to Buy. Like most women she saved her Allowance and spent it two or three times and then decided to buy her present on the installment plan and allow him to pay some day. But alas, Poor Girl, she neglected shopping until the Day before Christmas. When she came out to the Terrace and pulled her hair down and found the Day after and her dear kind Lizabeth had flown to the Arms of the wise Sister who never procrastinates. Today she is just an ugly mean sour, old maid and she looks it. People do not look at her eyes any more. They stopped that when she lost her roses. Anytime some Day she may lose a Man but not her Photograph printed above tells the Truth.

Moral: If you would be a Beautiful and happy married, Shop Early!

Attachment for Head Makes Driving in Tight Places Easier.

Who has not pounded his thumb in place of a nail while trying to hammer the latter into some place difficult to reach or some corner where it was hard to get both hand and hammer? A North Dakota man has gotten around this difficulty with an ingenious invention of an attachment for the handle of hammers which holds the nail just beneath the head and drives it into place without difficulty. The attachment consists of a loop of metal and a slight groove and recess under the hammer head. The nail fits in this, and all that need be done is to give one blow, as if the nail were held in position with the fingers. This blow will suffice to fix the nail in place, and the hammer can then be withdrawn, the loop in the head being large enough to permit of the passage of the head of the nail, and the nail can be pounded all the way in with no trouble at all. In this way the thumb and fingers of the carpenter are in no danger.

Improved Interior Photographs.

With the assistance of Messrs. H. d'Osmont and Montpillard, Mr. Payle, a French photographer, has succeeded in obtaining interior photographs in the colors of nature by the use of magnesium light. The exposures are, of course, instantaneous, and the success of the experiments is based upon the employment of a special powder composed of magnesium and phosphorus, which burns with great rapidity, and specially colored screens. The photographs of moving objects are said to be surprisingly perfect in all their colors. The operation is performed in ordinary photography with magnesium light. That is to say, the lights in the room are left burning when the exposure is made.

Letter Long Delayed.

A letter posted 21 years ago to Samuel Haywood, a pipe manufacturer, of Molra, near Burton-on-Trent, Eng., has just been discovered wedged behind the local post office counter, and handed to his successor, a limited company.

The advertisements will suggest what to give as gifts.

Bonano

Drink It Because It's So Good

THERE is nothing strange about taking the meat of the choicest Tropic-ripened bananas, roasting it, granulating it, and making from it a hot table beverage.

Not so unusual, when you come to think of it, as taking the bitter coffee berry—poisonous in its natural state—roasting and grinding it and serving it as a hot drink. Or brewing a beverage from the dried and hand-rolled tea leaves of India and Japan.

We of America have our coffee, tea, cocoa, chocolate, and now our BONANO. Is there any reason to presume that BONANO—made from the most delicious fruit that grows—may not be the best hot drink, better than those you have been accustomed to? It is, and we want you to know it.

We want you to enjoy its tempting aroma, its spicy, appetizing flavor. We want you to see how it strengthens, nourishes and refreshes.

Drink BONANO for its own delicious goodness. That's enough reason. And you will feel better for drinking it, too. Let the children have all the BONANO they want. There's nothing in it that can harm them—much that will do them good.

BONANO—pure and clean—handled in a sanitary way from the time the luscious, naturally ripened fruit is picked until you open the sealed package in your own home—is sold by your grocer. A 25-cent can of BONANO makes 75 cups of the best hot drink you ever tasted.
